The specificity of the four spaces to be rearranged determined the diversity of the settings:

- Bubbles of glass shelter the reception rooms dedicated to meetings and business lunches in the client suite. Their double-skinned walls echo metallic curtain walls. The light thus created imparts a feeling of weightlessness.
- A versatile space and a reception office add their curves to the large space of the employees' lounge which extends naturally into the adjacent patio.

- The auditorium frees itself from the constraints of height by a subtle layout. Drawn like a shell, its sober hues are revealed by the golden tones of the seating.
- A shower of glass droplets adds its glittering light to give the hall more depth.
